Jackson Prison Racial Investigation Promised

JACKSON (UPI) — Damon Keith, co-chairman of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, pledged Tuesday to press for an immediate investigation of charges of racial discrimination at Southern Michigan Prison here.

The prison is the largest walled penal institution in the world and houses Michigan's toughest prisoners.

Prison officials have discounted the charges made by four drug-crazed Negro convicts who held a doctor and three guards hostage in the prison's hospital for almost six hours Monday.

The convicts, described by prison officials are extremely dangerous, held their captives at knifepoint behind a barricade of smashed office furniture. They took drugs and drank liquids containing alcohol until they became ill.

Hostages Unharmed

After negotiations with prison officials, including two Negro counselors, and other Negro inmates, they released the three guards and then surrendered. Dr. W.R. Latchaw, 62, had been released a short time earlier. None of the hostages was harmed.

Keith said, "If the allegations are true, as has been alleged, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission should move in and investigate immediately." He said he would suggest such an investigation to his colleagues on the commission.

"It is just unheard of that an institution supported by public funds would allow discriminatory practices," he said.

Louis Utess, administrative assistant to the warden, said he felt the discrimination complaints were without merit.

Lists Complaints

"This is like any city of some 4,000," he said, "and there are going to be minor flareups from time to time, I would say we're healthily integrated here."

One of the convicts, Alvin Shaw, 24, Detroit, wrote a series of grievances Tuesday. He said, "I haven't been given the opportunity in all fields of work as the white inmate has.

"There are various jobs that Negroes can't have. The officials don't like the white and black associating together. I have had officers lie on me for no reason, to get me put in the hole."

Manila Plane Hits Barracks; Many Injured

MANILA (UPI)—A Philippine Air Line DC3 with 38 Filipinos aboard lost power today on takeoff from Manila Airport and crashed into the barracks area of nearby Nichols Air Force Base. All aboard were rescued quickly but one passenger died later.

Many passengers were badly injured; some were near death.

Several hundred Philippine Air Force men were in the barracks area on a mid-morning coffee break when the plane plunged to the ground, but only five were injured. Two were in serious condition.

The passengers included Jose Cruz, director of the Philippine Department of Public Works, and his assistant.

The twin-engine plane ripped through several power poles and hit three barracks buildings. But the plane did not catch fire until five minutes after it came to rest, permitting Air Force men to rescue the 35 passengers and three crewmen.

An explosion could have caused a disaster. Ammunition is stored in some of the barracks. "We all could have been blown to kingdom come," an Air Force officer said.

Group At MSU Backs US Policy

EAST LANSING (UPI) — A Michigan State University student group plans to mail President Johnson a petition with up to 20,000 signatures indicating support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The campaign, designed to offset the effects of recent student demonstrations, is being waged by a group of student military veterans organized as the "Ad Hoc Committee on Students for Administration Policies in Viet Nam."

Bill Webb, who served four years in the Navy, told the East Lansing Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night that "we have a surprising amount of student support for this...We may get a majority of student signatures by Friday."

The committee has set up an informational booth in the student union.

Snow Plowing Bill Is Signed

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney Tuesday signed a bill into law which would allow Upper Peninsula residents to contract with county road commissions to remove snow from private driveways and private roads.

The pieces of legislation passed both houses of the Legislature during the fall session. Upper Peninsula residents would pay for the full cost of the snow removal.

The governor also signed into law two other measures. One would provide separate booths at polling places for the marking of paper ballots in any primary election where both voting machines and paper ballots are used.

Another bill approved by the governor would correct a reference in the Milk Standards Law.

Cuban Exodus Stops Suddenly

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Anxious relatives stood on the public dock here today and stared across the calm Florida Straits, wondering what caused a sudden stoppage in the refugee "freedom ferries" from Cuba.

The U.S. Coast Guard picket reported that no refugee boats were in sight, touching off fear among the hundreds of exiles who gather on the dock daily that Fidel Castro may have temporarily stopped the exodus from the Cuban embarkation port of Camarioca.

The last refugees to arrive in Florida were picked up early Tuesday by the cutter Cape Shoalwater from Cay Sal, where they were dumped Monday by a boat that returned to Cuba for another load.

Cuban authorities hinted Tuesday they may stop the exodus of small boats as a safety precaution and permit only large boats to carry refugees across the sometimes treacherous Straits.

Havana Radio reported Tuesday that 119 boats, ranging from small, rickety-appearing vessels to the 120-foot tugboat Cape Cod, were waiting at Camarioca and nearby Varadero to carry refugees to freedom.

Cuban exile observers speculated Castro may have temporarily halted or slowed down the refugee exodus because he was taken aback at the clamor of Cubans wanting to leave the island.

Chicago Group Of Students To Oppose War

CHICAGO (UPI)—A radical student group vowed Tuesday that investigation and even prosecution by the federal government would not stop its "unqualified opposition" to the war in Viet Nam or its beat-the-draft program.

"The attacks...by the President and other public officials sadden us, but it is a comparatively small price to pay for our continued refusal to support this war," Richard Rothstein, national staff member of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), said.

Members Polled

The SDS beat-the-draft program, revealed during last weekend's anti-Viet Nam demonstrations, includes efforts to encourage draft eligible young men to become conscientious objectors, enlistment of high school students in the organization, and possibly campus strikes.

The Chicago-based organization is currently polling its estimated 10,000 members on the beat-the-draft policy, Rothstein said. Results are expected in about four days, and if the vote is favorable the program will become "official" SDS policy.

"Investigation and prosecution by President Johnson, the attorney general and the district attorney and even by J. Edgar Hoover will not deter SDS from continuing its unqualified opposition to participation in the war in Viet Nam," Rothstein told a news conference.

More Card Burnings

Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach told a Sunday news conference in Chicago that the Justice Department is investigating the entire beat-the-draft movement. He said the SDS program was only part of the movement.

A federal grand jury in New York Tuesday indicated David J. Miller, 22, on charges of destroying his draft card in violation of a new federal law. A New Jersey theology teacher posted $500 bail to obtain Miller's release from jail in Manchester, N.J. Another young pacifist said there will be more draft card burnings in the next few days.

Thomas Cornell, an official of the Student Catholic Peace Fellowship, said a national movement was under way to flood federal courts with card burning cases in order to impede enforcement of the newly enacted law making such action illegal.

Public School Prayers Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Holland, Mich., women Tuesday presented petitions which they said contained 27,112 signatures to Reps. Robert P. Griffin and Gerald R. Ford, both Michigan Republicans, calling for a constitutional amendment to restore prayers and Bible reading to the public schools.

The women, who said they were acting independently because of their concern, were identified as Mrs. William Westrate Jr. and Mrs. Howard W. Graves.

The women said their action was prompted by a recent Michigan ruling by Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley which held that the reading of the Bible and offering of prayers on public school property while school is in session is unconstitutional. His ruling was based on a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Ford and Griffin advised the women that nothing could be done toward generating support for the petitions during the current session of Congress, expected to adjourn Saturday.

However, the congressmen said they were impressed by the number of signatures on the petitions and the interest shown by persons in Western Michigan. They told the women that perhaps more interest could be generated in the next session of Congress.

State Budget Set At 1.354 Billion

HARRISBURG (UPI)—Fiscal spokesman for legislative Democrats and Republicans virtually have sealed an agreement calling for a $1.354 billion general fund budget in the 1965-66 fiscal year.

Negotiators for the two parties all but cleaned up about $200 million in stray appropriations by hammering out compromises on state aid boosts keyed to tuition costs at two universities, distribution of $34 million as a school subsidy bonus, a $3.5 million program for college scholarships and apportionment of federal food stamp administration costs.

The total budget will be about $9 million higher than the revised proposal of Gov. William W. Scranton but $25 million less than the amount sought by House Democrats.

Rep. Martin P. Mullen, D-Phila., said the agreed upon total was the ceiling set by Gov. William W. Scranton. But he predicted the state would wind up the fiscal year next June with an $80 million surplus, including $40 million to $50 million in excess revenues and $30 million to $40 million in lapses of unspent appropriations.

Senate Moves Bills

Though the agreement is reported to be still subject to leadership approval, the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday sent to the floor compromise bills earmarking $30.1 million for Pennsylvania State University, $11.5 million for Temple University and $7.8 million for the University of Pennsylvania.

The state aid grants will result in reduction of tuition for Pennsylvania residents at Temple and Penn State's State College campus to $450 a year while the rate at state's commonwealth campuses will slide to $390. Out - of - state students will pay three times as much.

Present rates at Temple are $920 a year while at Penn State students pay $525 annually.

The school subsidy agreement adds $6 million to the bonus originally approved by Scranton and provides an option for benefitting school districts. Urban districts can elect to take their cut on the basis of $2.50 per resident while smaller districts are expected to choose to receive their bonus under the existing formula using $28 million as the base for splitting the money.

Compromise Reached

The pioneer college scholarship program would provide $1.5 million more than proposed by the administration but $2.5 million less than the amount pushed by House Democrats.

A joint conference committee reached agreement on the food stamp program by putting state participation on a sliding scale or 70 per cent of the cost this year, 60 per cent next year and 50 per cent the third year.

The House quit for a two-week recess Tuesday and the Senate will adjourn today.

The Senate Tuesday approved 46-2 and shipped the House legislation hiking salaries of all state judges, effective Jan. 1, 1967. A $2,500 annual boost is earmarked for judge of the supreme, superior and Dauphin County courts while other jurists would be raised to $25,500 a year.

A Special House Committee investigating the state Insurance Department summoned commissioner Audrey R. Kelly to a public hearing here Oct. 28. The committee also asked Mrs. Kelly's key aided to appear at its initial hearing and bring records with names and titles of employes.

The Senate returns at 11 a.m. EDT today and the House at 4 p.m. Nov. 8.

Farmington Boy Held As Killer Of Woman, 80

FARMINGTON (UPI)—A 17-year - old high school dropout with a medical discharge from the Navy was charged with first degree murder Tuesday in the weekend stabbing of an 80-year-old neighbor he had known since childhood.

William Sleeper, described by homicide detectives as a clean-cut, good-looking youth with a blond brush cut, was taken into custody when he appeared at a funeral home to "pay his respects" to the family of Ethel Van Wicklin.

Police said Sleeper told them he stabbed the woman to death with a letter opener when she tried to give him some grandmotherly advice about drinking.

Authorities said an autopsy showed there were 38 stab wounds in her body.

Sleeper, who is being held in the Oakland County Jail, told police he heard a noise outside Mrs. Van Wicklin's home early Saturday morning and went in to tell her about it.

Authorities theorized Sleeper had been drinking and became enraged when Mrs. Van Wicklin began lecturing him about the use of alcohol.

Mrs. Van Wicklin had said she looked on Sleeper "just as though he were my grandson." She lived next door to the Sleepers.

Sleeper, the son of a delivery truck helper, served briefly in the Navy. He suffered a back injury, was discharged after four months' service and has not been employed since.

"He had blackouts in the Navy and that is why he was discharged," his mother told officers. She said he had hoped to learn a trade in the Navy.

Clean Air Bill Becomes Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson, at his first legislative ceremony since his gall bladder operation, signed into law today the so-called "clean air" bill to attack air pollution.

The ceremony, in Johnson's third floor suite at Bethesda Naval Hospital, was attended by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, House Welfare Secretary John Gardner.

Among the provisions of the bill is a requirement that, starting with 1968 models, all new automobiles, including foreign vehicles sold in this country, will have to meet federal standards for exhaust control.

The legislation also sets up a federal research and technical assistance program to seek ways of disposing of the millions of tons of solid waste discharged into the atmosphere each year.

Jet Car Melts In Speed Test

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)—Bold Bobby Tatroe took a spectacular ride across western Utah's Salt Flats Tuesday unaware that the rear portion of his rocket-powered racer was a virtual blow torch burning away behind him.

The age of rocketry, which came to Bonneville for the first time this season, produced the latest in a series of unusual mishaps as Walt Arfons' "Wingfoot Express," driven by Tatroe, was damaged during an abortive bid to gain the world land speed record.

The Arfons car hurtled across the salt at 438.650 miles per hour even though most of its rockets were malfunctioning. But the sides and undercarriage of the 28-foot-long light blue racer were melted in various places by the tremendous heat produced by the rockets.

The damage was confined to the sheet metal skin and wiring inside the racer and it appeared repairs would take at least a week or two.

Arfons was undecided whether to stay on the Salt Flat and make the repairs or return the vehicle to Ohio.

The 28-year-old Tatroe, of Grand Rapids, Mich., flashed across the salt unaware of what was happening behind him. After bringing the racer to a stop on the north end of the speedway he climbed from the cockpit and was shocked by what he saw.

The driver was visibly shaken by the condition of the car but later regained his composure and joined crew members in trying to determine the cause of the trouble.

Arfons placed the blame on malfunctioning retro-fires. He explained that the rockets burned forward instead of backward, producing the blow torch-like flames that lapped away at the vehilcle.

Dozen Hunters Kill 2 Horses Near Craig, Colo.

CRAIG, Colo. (UPI) — To make sure they returned from their hunting trip Tuesday, Don Mallinson, a firearms safety instructor from Hutchinson, Minn., and his brother, John, wore bright jackets and fluorescent hats.

To make doubly sure, they drove a bright red truck and planned to paint their horses yellow. But no sooner had they parked and unloaded the animals than a shot rang out. One horse fell dead. Then more shots and the second horse fell.

The brothers ran for cover. Minutes later a dozen hunters came out of the trees in Colorado's White River Forest ready to argue for the kill.

But when they saw what they had killed, none would admit firing his rifle, Mallinson said.

Convicts Caught At Marquette

MARQUETTE (UPI) —Michigan State Police, Marquette Police and Marquette County Sheriff's deputies captured two escapees from the Wisconsin State Reformatory farm here Tuesday.

The widespread search for the fugitives from the prison farm near Green Bay, Wis., included the services of a police dog and an airplane.

Russell Beaudry, 20, Milwaukee, was captured in the morning while walking on railroad tracks here. Irving Horan, 19, Edgerton, Wis., was later flushed from a nearby woods by authorities using the dog and airplane.

Marquette Police Chief George Johnson said Beaudry and Horan walked away from the reformatory early Monday morning. Authorities said they apparently stole a pickup truck and drove here where they abandoned the vehicle in a private driveway.

Beaudry was serving a term for burglary. Horan had been sent up for auto theft.

Vandals Mess Up Road Signs

CHEBOYGAN (UPI) — They called it brand blotting in the days of the early west.

State Police call the modern version a nuisance and hope they catch up with pranksters who are confusing motorists by altering signs.

Signs on U.S. 23 were repainted to read "U.S. 28" with a few strokes of a brush and matching paint.

This left many out of state motorists in a dither as there is no U.S. 28.

Hare Predicts Spurt In 1966 Auto Insurance

LANSING (UPI) — Secretary of State James Hare said Tuesday many uninsured motorists actually may go out and get insurance rather than pay the new $35 state fee for the privilege of driving.

The Legislature last week amended the new Motor Vehicle Fund Act to require uninsured motorists to pay $35 before they can purchase their 1966 license plate rather than $25.

"Based on experience in other states, about half of the uninsured motorists became insured during the first year of such programs," Hare said.

"More than half of our estimated 15 per cent uninsured might purchase liability insurance with the fees set at this high level. For a few dollars more per year, many drivers will now be able to buy liability insurance," he added.

Must Educate Public

The Vehicle Fund, expected to reach $15 million during the first year of its operation, would pay all personal injury claims and property damage amounting to $200 or more to a driver involved in an accident caused by an uninsured motorist.

Hare said the new amendments adopted by the Legislature to the Vehicle Fund Act left him with a gigantic task of reeducating the public to the costs of the program to the sale of license plates Nov. 1.

Nearly 4.7 million insured drivers will have to pay $1 into the fund. The nearly 300,000 uninsured motorists will pay $35. The money would go toward paying off accident claims.

Hare reminded uninsured motorists the fund was not an insurance plan.

"The $35 fee is for the privilege of driving in Michigan only," Hare said.

Less Hit-And-Run

He also said he was pleased with the new amendments, including the minimum property damage claim of $200, and the omission of hit-and-run type property damage accidents from the law.

"These major changes will eliminate the minor fender-scratching claims and some of the fraudulent hit-and-run property damage claims which would have resulted had these provisions been left in," Hare said.

Wall signs, posters, pamphlets and thousands of pieces of literature explaining the new provisions in the law are now being made for circulation throughout the state to announce the changes.

DETROIT (UPI)—When Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey comes to Michigan Friday, he'll be making political hay out of corn.

Humphrey will drop in on the National Corn Picking contest southeast of here at the Victor Knierim farm. Humphrey will be the main speaker at the agricultural show which is expected to attract several thousand persons from seven corn-producing states.

Each state is sending an entry for the picker, picker-sheller and corn combine division of the contest, being held for the first time in Michigan.

Humphrey is scheduled to fly into Detroit Friday morning and take a helicopter to the new Adlai E. Stevenson High School in Livonia, a Detroit suburb. After participating in dedication day ceremonies, he will travel to Rochester to speak at Oakland University and from there fly to the Knierim farm near Adrian.

United Nations:

Women Voters Relay Message

The story of the United Nations and its role in keeping the peace of the world is being carried to the people of this community by the League of Women Voters of Escanaba in a variety of ways. United Nations Week begins Oct. 24.

"Operation soap box" is one of the methods adopted by the League for gaining better understanding of the UN and its objectives, said Mrs. Michael Skorich of the League of Women Voters.

"Literature on the efforts to promote peace is being distributed to the laundromats for use by the general public," she said.

"United Nations literature has been sent to the libraries, schools, professional offices, and beauty shops to stimulate interest in this peace keeping organization on its 20th anniversary," she added.

Better To Talk

Mrs. Frank Neumeier of the League of Women Voters said that "support of the United Nations has been a national project of the League" in a talk to the Rotary Club at its meeting at the House of Ludington Tuesday noon. The Rotary program was arranged by Robert Haack and Mrs. Neumeier was introduced by Mrs. Skorich.

The old League of Nations failed because the lines of power after World War I were firmly drawn before the League was organized, Mrs. Neumeier said. But the United Nations came into being while World War II was still in progress and after the explosion of the atomic bomb forcefully impressed the world with the need for an effective peace machine.

"Some people will say that all the UN does is talk," she said. "I say that it is better to continue talking — because the danger comes when talking stops."

She traced the history of the UN and its development from a membership of 51 to 117 nations, with many new and under-developed countries composing the bulk of the new members. Now truly worldwide, the UN originally was largely Western in its orientation.

Cost Declines

"The United Nations is an organization of soverign states banded together for keeping the peace and to raise the cultural and social conditions of the people of the world," she explained.

Although the United States finances about 40 per cent of the UN operating budget (the members are assessed on the basis of their national income) it receives more than it pays because of the location of the UN in this country, and the large numbers of persons involved in UN residing here.

At its inception the cost of the UN to U. S. citizens was $1.07. This has ben reduced to 98 cents, and compares to the $2.81 per capita cost of the military, Rotarians were told.

The Rotary Club meeting was conducted by Isadore Stein, club vice president, who welcomed into Rotary three new members — Wesley Hansen, Alvin St. Pierre and Monroe F. Bouchet.

THE UNITED NATIONS story is being carried to the people of the community by the League of Women Voters of Escanaba in part by the "operation soap box" project. Comet Sweeps Skies Thursday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The comet Ikeya-Seki will sweep across North American skies today and Thursday in what astronomers predict will be the greatest show in the heavens of this century.

Kenneth Franklin of the Hayden Planetarium said the comet will appear as a bright light near the sun during the daylight hours but the precise hour cannot be determined.

"Comets are notoriously unpredictable," Franklin said. "And with this one, it's like trying to watch a horse race from a merry-go-round."

He said it should appear again sometime near midnight Thursday, moving eastward in the northern sky.

Ikeya-Seki will become visible as it nears the sun, reflects the sun's light and generates light of its own. As the comet approaches perihelion, the closest point to the sun, which should be between 100,000 and 300,000 miles, the million-mile-long tail will grow brighter.

Astronomers warn against use of binoculars by those watching the comet's celestial journey to possible destruction. The light from the comet is of high intensity and magnifying lenses could cause serious eye damage.

The scientists say the best way to see Ikeya-Seki is to hold one hand against the sun, thereby avoiding its searing rays, and sight against the horizon where the comet will pass.

Ikeya-Seki was named after the Japanese astronomers who discovered it Sept. 18. Since it is such an unusual occurrence, scientists will try to photograph the comet from airplanes.

Space Co-Op

PARIS (UPI) — French and Soviet scientists Tuesday completed a one-week conference on possible cooperation on space programs, but did not issue a closing communique.

The Russian delegation was headed by Professor Leonid Sedov, so-called "Father of the Sputnik."

Apollo Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans contribute an average of 50 cents each per week to the effort to put a man on the moon by the end of the decade. And the House Space Committee staff believes the money is being well spent.

In a report to the committee, made public Tuesday, the staff said the Apollo space program "is a vital and well-managed effort" and is progressing on schedule.

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

United Nations:

Women Voters Relay Message

The story of the United Nations and its role in keeping the peace of the world is being carried to the people of this community by the League of Women Voters of Escanaba in a variety of ways. United Nations Week begins Oct. 24.

"Operation soap box" is one of the methods adopted by the League for gaining better understanding of the UN and its objectives, said Mrs. Michael Skorich of the League of Women Voters.

"Literature on the efforts to promote peace is being distributed to the laundromats for use by the general public," she said.

"United Nations literature has been sent to the libraries, schools, professional offices, and beauty shops to stimulate interest in this peace keeping organization on its 20th anniversary," she added.

Better To Talk

Mrs. Frank Neumeier of the League of Women Voters said that "support of the United Nations has been a national project of the League" in a talk to the Rotary Club at its meeting at the House of Ludington Tuesday noon. The Rotary program was arranged by Robert Haack and Mrs. Neumeier was introduced by Mrs. Skorich.

The old League of Nations failed because the lines of power after World War I were firmly drawn before the League was organized, Mrs. Neumeier said. But the United Nations came into being while World War II was still in progress and after the explosion of the atomic bomb forcefully impressed the world with the need for an effective peace machine.

"Some people will say that all the UN does is talk," she said. "I say that it is better to continue talking — because the danger comes when talking stops."

She traced the history of the UN and its development from a membership of 51 to 117 nations, with many new and under-developed countries composing the bulk of the new members. Now truly worldwide, the UN originally was largely Western in its orientation.

Cost Declines

"The United Nations is an organization of soverign states banded together for keeping the peace and to raise the cultural and social conditions of the people of the world," she explained.

Although the United States finances about 40 per cent of the UN operating budget (the members are assessed on the basis of their national income) it receives more than it pays because of the location of the UN in this country, and the large numbers of persons involved in UN residing here.

At its inception the cost of the UN to U. S. citizens was $1.07. This has ben reduced to 98 cents, and compares to the $2.81 per capita cost of the military, Rotarians were told.

The Rotary Club meeting was conducted by Isadore Stein, club vice president, who welcomed into Rotary three new members — Wesley Hansen, Alvin St. Pierre and Monroe F. Bouchet.

Argentati Given Houghton Office

Elio Argentati

Elio Argentati of Escanaba, division manager of Upper Peninsula Power Co.'s Southern Division, comprising the Delta and Iron River districts, has been promoted to superintendent of operations with headquarters at the general office in Houghton.

Argentati, a graduate of Michigan Tech, joined U. P. Power in 1960 as application engineer in the Southern Division. He was employed earlier by the Erie Mining Co. at Hoyt Lakes, Minn. His experience in the U. S. Air Force and in electrical engineering in the mining business prior to coming with the Power Co. provided background for his new company-wide responsibilities.

He was born in Iron Mountain, but spent most of his lifetime in Iron River. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Argentati of Iron River. Following graduation from Iron River High School in 1946, he attended Michigan Tech at Houghton, and in 1950 received his B. S. degree in electrical engineering. He is a veteran of the Korean War and spent 30 months with the U. S. Air Force in Japan.

Argentati is active in community affairs and is a member of the American Legion Post of Iron River and the Escanaba Lions Club. Mrs. Argentati is the former Nelda Mongiat of Iron River. They have two children; Daniel, 6 and Laurie Ann, 5.

Gary H. Barton of Escanaba, formerly superintendent of the Delta District and engineer of the Southern Division, is promoted to succeed Argentati as division manager.

Barton, a native of Flint, joined the utility in 1958 following his graduation from Michigan Tech where he received his B.S. degree in electrical engineering.

He is a member of the Escanaba Lions Club and of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers and American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The Bartons have three children and reside at Soo Hill, Escanaba.

George R. Gildersleeve of Hancock and recently of Negaunee, supervisor of engineering, is advanced to superintendent of engineering, Houghton.

Stanley C. Raiala, engineering assistant at Houghton, has been promoted to supervisor of thermal efficiency in the Production Department.

Comet Sweeps Skies Thursday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The comet Ikeya-Seki will sweep across North American skies today and Thursday in what astronomers predict will be the greatest show in the heavens of this century.

Kenneth Franklin of the Hayden Planetarium said the comet will appear as a bright light near the sun during the daylight hours but the precise hour cannot be determined.

"Comets are notoriously unpredictable," Franklin said. "And with this one, it's like trying to watch a horse race from a merry-go-round."

He said it should appear again sometime near midnight Thursday, moving eastward in the northern sky.

Ikeya-Seki will become visible as it nears the sun, reflects the sun's light and generates light of its own. As the comet approaches perihelion, the closest point to the sun, which should be between 100,000 and 300,000 miles, the million-mile-long tail will grow brighter.

Astronomers warn against use of binoculars by those watching the comet's celestial journey to possible destruction. The light from the comet is of high intensity and magnifying lenses could cause serious eye damage.

The scientists say the best way to see Ikeya-Seki is to hold one hand against the sun, thereby avoiding its searing rays, and sight against the horizon where the comet will pass.

Ikeya-Seki was named after the Japanese astronomers who discovered it Sept. 18. Since it is such an unusual occurrence, scientists will try to photograph the comet from airplanes.

Democratic Era

Not since the days of Franklin Delano Roosevelt has there been so much jubilation in the Democratic party as there is today. It bubbled over in the recent Democratic conference for the Upper Peninsula in Escanaba, when a great assembly of the Michigan party's brass recited the legislative achievements at the state and national levels.

The achievements are impressive. An era in social legislation has reached climax with this year's legislation both at Lansing and in Washington. Many proposals which had been gathering support for many years, but failing of passage, were suddenly legislated.

The Republicans helped this process in varying degrees by voting for some of these changes, but the Democrats make no mention of this, except for Senator Philip Hart's report that the Republicans had been in a lower proportion than the Democrats for repeal of Taft-Hartley Act's 14 (B). Unquestionably the Democrats supplied the leadership for the legislative trend.

Their Escanaba party conference showed a party spirit and numbers that the Republicans have not been able to muster in recent years. The conservative position is at ebb tide with the nation moving so strongly into government aid programs and with the national economy in a prolonged boom. But the nation has not had the bills for this federal spending, nor has it had the results to show the merit of what it has bought.

Michigan's Democratic leaders say that they have accomplished more in the past year than has ever been accomplished before except in the beginning of the Franklin Delano Roosevelt administration, and that maybe they have exceeded even that burst of welfare commitment.

G. Mennen Williams, six times governor of Michigan and now U.S. secretary of state for African affairs, said "the things that the Congress and the Statehouse have accomplished are tremendous. Really what has happened is that many things that we tried to achieve for many years have finally been written into law. We have not accomplished every one, but we have cleared the board so that we can release a whole new body of aspirations."

U.S. Senator Philip Hart said that "The U.S. was propelled into progress by political forces that advocated the opposite," that once the Goldwater defeat was totaled "it left no one in doubt about national wishes."

Hart cited increased aid to education, effort (defeated) to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act's 14(B) provision permitting state laws banning the union shop, enactment of civil rights, medicare, a Sylvania purchase appropriation and the Pictured Rocks and Sleeping Bear Dunes national lakeshore park projects, the Public Works and Economic Development Act with its authority for a "Little Appalachia" government program of development spending in the northern Great Lakes States. Also repeal of the national origins basis for immigration.

Change in government usually moves slowly, except for climactic periods of cumulative, explosive decision. We have just been through such a period of legislation, especially in Washington, and to a lesser degree in Lansing, where the Democrats recaptured control of the Legislature for the first time in 30 years.

In Washington there was a combination of an overwhelmingly Democratic House and Senate and a president elected by a tremendous majority, as a mandate for implementation of his party's progressive platform. Lyndon Johnson not only had the mandate and the votes, he also had an unparalleled ability to move legislation (except 14(B)) through Congress.

As a result the nation has new directions in civil rights, where the Democrats of the South have for so many years stymied the constitutional guarantees of the Negro to citizenship. There has also been a great extension of the Social Security commitment to include tax paid medical care of all the elderly. (Previous federal aid for a more complete care had been provided under the Kerr-Mills Act only to those not able to pay for it themselves.

The increased aid to education by both state and federal governments is in the tradition of American change for both parties, but this year brought a great leap ahead.

The implication of this change is one of increasing federalization of government, of more reliance upon Washington for financing of state and local works. It will mean higher federal taxes and more government programs like the War on Poverty, more use of the governmenut power to tax and spend and will increasingly socialize the economy with government supports and controls. The people order this strong trend with their support of the Democratic program.

Senator Hart says that with twice the gross national product of the Soviet Union "Why don't we do more things twice as fast? And I hope that will be the tradition of our party."

There is a serious question about the essential soundness of our governmental haste to socialize because the opposition whose questioning has always influenced national decision strongly before, has been so largely overwhelmed by spenders. Al Smith, one of the great Democrats, said a long time ago "Nobody shoots Santa Claus." He intended it as a warning.

American Way

An advertisement for a correspondence school that appeared in a recent issue of Paris Match magazine pictured a young, briefcase - carrying businessman walking from his car to his pleasant suburban home as his well-dressed family rushed to greet him.

Large type proclaimed: "Succeed in the American Way."

The text went on to say that "Americans, the race of realists who love money and comfort . . . have been the first to profit from the methods of professional instruction by mail, particularly in preparation for magnificent careers in commerce where one can most quickly win the greatest that life has to offer . . ."

This is flattering. It is also a little sobering.

The fact that to foreigners we are a "race of realists" who worship the dollar sign and that the "American way" is a get-rich-quick method that can be packaged as an advertising gimmick indicates a sad failure on somebody's part either to understand or to explain just what our experiment in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is supposed to be all about.

Where Did You Come From, Baby Dear—?

Price Line Holds

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There seems little doubt that 1965 will be the most inflationary year since the Democrats regained the White House in 1961. But the President's economomists think the worst is over and see no cause for alarm.

In sharp partisan cries, Republican politicians are making the most of the higher 1965 consumer and industrial price levels.

Their handicap is that they are overstating the case, as they have consistently done for at least the last year or two—no matter what the figures showed.

For the first eight months of 1965, the net rise in consumer prices comes to 1.3 per cent. A .2 per cent drop in August prevents the climb from looking a little worse. Obviously, with four months to be recorded, there is a good chance the total increase for the year will land somewhere between 1.5 and 2 per cent.

These figures compare with an average annual increase of just 1.2 per cent in consumer prices over the past four years. In an expansion era like the present, this is practical stability.

The last real inflation was in 1957 (3.3 per cent) and 1958 (2.7 per cent). Even that looks pale beside the horrendous 15.1 per cent jump of 1946-47 after World War II.

A sharp springtime upward burst in food prices accounts for most of the unsettling rise of 1965. Meat prices soared substantially. Fruit and vegetable prices also increased.

Weather seems to have been a key factor in the latter hikes. Ranchers' production cutbacks, following upon low beef and pork prices in 1964, gave meat prices their big boost this year.

There is still some consumer price rise threat. In the shoes and apparel field, fall increases failed to materialize after a similar announcement.

The President's advisers root part of their optimism in their conviction that the forward surge of food prices has spent itself. They dropped .7 per cent in August, contributing heavily to the overall .2 per cent consumer price decline. The economists look for little change here in the remainder of 1965.

They find other hope in the fact that newly enacted excise tax reductions have produced cuts in some durable goods prices and in toiletries.

The general consumer price prospect, then, is believed to be comforting despite the upward flurries in the first half of 1965.

Nor do the economists read peril in the upthrust shown by industrial prices this year and in the last third of 1964.

The gain from August to August was 1.5 per cent—explained largely by price hikes in copper, aluminum and some other items. The rise in the eight months of 1965 was .8 per cent. Yet one top economist says he now foresees "no significant worsening of that picture."

His argument is simply that unit labor costs have remained stable over the past 12 months or more. More than a hundred major labor contracts have been negotiated this year without materially altering that stable base.

Nevertheless, as always, there are no grounds for complacency. Heavier future outlays for Great Society programs and for an expanded war in Viet Nam could conceivably reduce the safety-valve factors (substantial unused industrial capacity, for example) which today help contain inflationary forces.

People, Events Of Yesteryears

From the files of the Escanaba Daily Press

25 YEARS AGO

Every "home rule" city in Michigan has a stake in defeating Proposal No. 3 in the Nov. 5 election, City Manager George E. Bean told members of the city council in a regular meeting which brought passage by the council on a formal resolution urging Escanaba Citizens to vote against it.

The citizens have a stake in the matter, too, he added, in the way of preserving the city's control of local utilities which return 40 per cent of their earnings to the city for use in lightening the tax burden.

50 YEARS AGO

The management of the Peterson roller rink has received 50 new pairs of skates equipped with the new Richardson fibre wheels. They are of the type that have been adopted in all the metropolitan rinks of the country.

The Bijou Amusement Company of Chicago has leased the Bijou theater in this city and will reopen that house at a matinee performance. Carl J. Tolan has been engaged as manager of the house and will conduct the amusement place as a five-cent house limiting the admission fee for all time to that amount.

VIET NAM

James D. Putnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Putnam of Ford River writes from Chulai, South Viet Nam, where he is serving with the 3rd Marine Division's 1st Battalion, 4th Marines Medical Section:

8, Oct., 1965

Today in this remote corner of the world, history was made. That history comes in the form of the U. S. Navy hospital corpsman serving with the Marine Corps.

For the first time many Vietnamese people have a new lease on life brought about by the newly instigated "People to People Program." Through this program medical aid is being provided to nearby villages weekly. Daily the hospital corpsmen serving at Marine outposts see hundreds of Vietnamese patients.

Such names as An Hoa, Dong Binh, Xuan Trung, An Tay, Long Binh and Thuan An are a part of the vocabulary each corpsmas must learn to find from where his patient comes. Many hours each night are spent discussing individual cases and what line of treatment should be pursued in the future.

Cases of the more serious nature are brought to the attention of Drs. Prizzi and Anderson. If warranted, such cases are reviewed and the line of action taken, this often leads the Vietnamese to the operating table and several weeks in a clean hospital, indeed a new experience for many.

The range of disease is from A to Z, and more often than not, in the advanced stages. New corpsmen to the Med-Cap program are often shocked at the conditions of the people. One finds children suffering from boils the size of a silver dollar, TB in the youngest as well as the oldest, malaise of the mind as well as the body.

Primitive treatments must be overcome and often these treatments are thousands of years old and the health battle will be a long one. The villages, on Med-Cap days, are a flurry of activity. Mothers scrubbing their children and dressing them in their Sunday best to go see the American doctors.

Often one sees a mother send her child through the waiting line several times to make sure that nothing more can be done.

To the Vietnamese, soap is gold, and something they cannot get enough of. They also consider it a cureall. The "Big Man In Town" is the man whose family has a bar of soap each. They bathe morning, noon and night, but the water is not always good.

Med-Cap has closed many wells because the people drank their bathing water and new wells are being dug under the proper supervision. Everyday history is made in this remote, Viet Cong-infested part of the world. History toward a free world and history toward a happy and healthy people. The hospital corpsman here fights two battles; one for a free Viet Nam and one for a healthy Viet Nam. Surely he can be proud of the fine work he is doing.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

The patient opened our conversation by saying, "I've had a weak back for a week back," I almost said, "Hasn't everybody?" because backache, low back pain, lumbago or sacroiliac strain — you can take your pick — is one of the commonest of all complaints.

The spinal column, designed as a bridge between the forelegs and the hindlegs of quadrupeds, has in man assumed the difficult task of holding the body erect. It is a wonder that it does as well at it does.

One of the most frequent causes of back pain is a "slipped disk." This is a misnomer because the soft gelatinous disk that served as a cushion between the individual vertebrae does not slip. It degenerates and as a result ruptures or protrudes and puts painful pressure on a spinal nerve.

When this happens the surrounding muscles go into spasm to prevent or minimize the movements that would aggravate the pain. Unfortunately, prolonged contraction or spasm of the muscles is also painful. This increases the spasm and sets up a vicious cycle.

There are, of course, many other causes of low back pain. It often accompanies menstruation but this is temporary and disappears with the cessation of the period. Other causes include arthritis, gout, trichinosis, collapse of a softened vertebra due to osteoporosis, faulty posture and injury.

A severe backache is often caused by a surprisingly mild injury — a misstep, a sudden twist even during sleep, straightening up too fast after stooping or the jolt of jumping off a stool. Weakness due to insufficient exercise, although not a direct cause, favors such injuries and is believed to be one reason the incidence of backache is increasing.

Having one leg shorter than the other will also cause pain in the back because it throws the whole spinal column off balance. Even our emotions may be the underlying cause of backache, especially in persons who suffer from great nervous tension, because this increases muscle tensions.

Having explored the causes of backache, two facts emerge. First, many of the causes are preventable and, second, not all backaches will respond to the same treatment. More about prevention and treatment in another column.

The practice of insurance can be traced back to ancient history. The Phoenicians, Greeks and Romans in early times had some types of insurance, including shipping insurance and sickness and death insurance.

Ann Landers

Mother Opposes Pierced Ears

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who is troubled by something that is bugging lots of high school girls. You spoke at our school several months ago and seemed like a good egg. Your opinion would count at home.

I am dying to get my ears pierced. Is that so awful? My mother is against it. She says it cheapens a girl's appearance. I say it depends on the girl and the earrings.

Some of the girls have let their friends pierce their ears, which horrifies my mother. I would have a doctor do it. The way my mother talks no respectable girl would have her ears pierced. Do you agree with her? (P. S.: Someone who met you in person said YOUR ears are pierced. True or False?)—BURLINGTON VERMONT MISS

Dear Miss: True. And I haven't lost a pair of earrings since I had it done, thank you.

Pierced ears are "in." I would O. K. it for 16-year-olds (no younger) provided the girl wears small button-type pearls or gold or silver balls. Enormour gypsy hoops or chandelier hardware does cheapen a girl's appearance, so that's "out."

P. S.: Ear-piercing should be done by a physician and not by any friend who happens to own an ice-pick or a darning needle

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landwers: Fifteen years ago my father died and left me a growing business. I worked for him before I married and enjoyed it. I persuaded my husband, Tom, to take over because I wanted to stay at home and raise our four young children.

Tom did well with the business. He expanded and remodeled the building and updated the equipment. He also kept bringing in his relatives—first a brother, then a nephew, then a brother-in-law. Whenever I objected it ended in a big fight, so I kept quiet.

Our youngest child is in high school now and I want to go back in the business. When I told my husband he said, "There is no room for you now. It would only cause trouble.

Last night I made my last stand. Either I go back in the business or I sell it.

Well, I was called everything in the book not only by my husband but my sons. Nobody is speaking to me today. I telephoned my pastor and he said, "Leave things as they are." I want your opinion.—THE OUTSIDER

Dear Outsider: Your pastor gave you excellent advice and I hope you take it.

Many things have changed in the past 15 years. If you insist on shooting your way into the business you'll create real trouble. According to your own testimony your husband has done well, so keep quiet and stay home.

Dear Ann Landers: We have close friends who are of a different faith. They are very fond of our children and the feeling is mutual.

In the past year these friends have been giving our children religious medals and objects which are symbolic of their faith. We've said nothing but we feel this is a slap at our beliefs. We would never give people of a different faith our religious literature or anything pertaining to it. The friendship of this couple is important to us, but so are our own convictions. Please give us some level-headed advice. — A VERY TOUCHY SUBJECT

Dear Touchy: These friends are paying your children a high compliment by giving them objects which have great meaning to them.

The medals need not be worn and the religious objects need not be displayed. Accept the gifts in the proper spirit—and then put them away.

Moonshine Cures His Hangovers

DALLAS (UPI)—Allen Johnson, 39, was fined $100 and given a suspended 60-day sentence in federal court Tuesday on a charge of possessing moonshine whisky.

But his lawyer, A. J. Piranio, told Judge T. Whitfield Davidson his client kept the half-gallon of corn whisky "for his own use only" because he did not like the taste of bottled-in-bond alcohol.

"It doesn't give me a headache like store-bought whisky does," Johnson said of his moonshine.

Forum To Hear Orthodox Leader

MARQUETTE — The most articulate Orthodox spokesman in America, an archbishop for nearly 30 years, Metropolitan Antony Bashir, is the featured speaker of the latest Forum Marquettensis session which will draw Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox clergymen to the Northern Michigan University Newman Center on Oct. 22.

In the morning His Eminence will go to K. I. Sawyer AFB where the Divine Liturgy will be offered at 9:30 a. m. This will be the first time an Orthodox priest will offer the Divine Liturgy on the base since it was opened.

The Forum session will begin at 1 p. m. His Eminence will speak on "The Orthodox Church and the Ecumenical Movement — Past, Present, and Future." The Forum Marquettensis is a lecture series sponsored and supported by the priests of the Catholic Diocese of Marquette.

Two years ago Fr. Gustave Weigel, SJ, spoke on ecumenism. The response of Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox clergy to that session was so enthusiastic that the Forum has sought out another outstanding speaker. Archbishop Bashir was chosen. The Forum has opened this session to clergy of all Christian churches.

Archbishop Bashir, as Metropolitan archbishop of the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox Archdiocese of New York and North America, was the first to use English in Orthodox services. In a nation that thinks in terms of Protestants, Catholics and Jews, Archbishop Bashir spearheaded the movement to recognize the Orthodox as a fourth major faith.

Archbishop Bashir is widely recognized as an Arabic scholar. He is the author of numerous works in both English and Arabic and has established scores of churches, church schools, choirs and other church organizations.

He was born March 15, 1898 in Lebanon and was ordained a deacon in April of 1916. He studied at the Law School of Baaba, Syria and the American University of Beirut and assisted with the translation of the best Arabic version of the New Testament.

In February of 1936 he was named Metropolitan Archbishop of the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox Church in North America. Since then he has seen 30 churches grow to 100 and the communicants of his church to more than 100,000.

Although the afternoon conferences are open only to the clergy, the Divine Liturgy at Chapel Two at K. I. Sawyer will be open to the public. The Orthodox Faithful are particularly invited to attend.

Flour Officials Fined For Fix

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Six flour mill executives who previously pleaded no contest to charges of conspiracy to fix prices on carloads of flour sold to bakers were fined $2,500 each Monday in federal court here. In imposing the fines, Judge John O. Henderson noted "that the public, so far as could be determined, has not been injured by the defendants' illegal agreement."

Each of the six could have been sentenced to a year in prison and fined $50,000.

None of the defendants, who had filed papers allowing attorneys to represent them, was present at the sentencing.

The defendants were:

Lawrence J. Weidt, vice president and manager of the Flour Division, Archer-Daniels Midland Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; Earl F. Cross, President, Colorado Milling & Elevator Co., Denver; William A. Lohman Jr., president, General Mills, Minneapolis; Barnard J. Rthwell II, president, Bay State Milling Co., Winona, Minn.; John J. Vanier, vice president of Gooch Milling & Elevator Co., Lincoln, Neb., and president of Inland Mills Inc., Des Moines, Iowa, and Weber Flour Mill Co. and Western Star Mill Co., both of Salina, Kan., and William R. Heegaard, vice president, Peavey Flour Mills Division, Minneapolis.

The government claimed the defendants, along with their companies which produce 65 per cent of the bakery flour sold east of the Rocky Mountains and do about $350 million business annually, began the conspiracy in 1958.

Twelve companies also were indicted, pleaded no contest and were fined a total of $190,000 last March 22.

Villanova Plans Christmas Wish To U. S. Soldiers

VILLANOVA, Pa. (UPI) — Villanova University students plan to send 20,000 greetings cards to U. S. servicemen in Vietnam for Christmas as a counter measure to the demonstrations against the Vietnam fighting.

Frank Eck, of Richmond, Va., president of the Student Government Association, said each of the 4,500 undergraduate students at the university will be urged to send five Christmas cards to the servicemen.

The cards will be delivered by "Mail Call Vietnam," at nearby Bryn Mawr, an organization formed about one week ago to "see that every serviceman in Vietnam receives a greeting at Christmas."

"Mail Call Vietnam" was the idea of Mrs. June Ornsteen of Gladwyne who said she was moved by a television interview in which servicemen in Vietnam complained that people back home seemed either disinterested or critical of them.

Officers Picked In State IOOF

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)— James S. Wotring of Blissfield Tuesday was named new Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the IOOF of Michigan at the organization's convention in session here.

Mrs. Carl Albrecht of Greenville was elected president of the Allied Rebekah Assembly of Michigan.

Other officers elected by the 14,000 - member IOOF State Lodge include J. Russell Hughes, Harrisville, deputy grand master; Archie Rounds, Lansing, reelected as secretary; the Rev. Russell H. McKenzie, Royal Oak, reelected as grand treasurer.

Outgoing Grand Master Philip E. Blalcok of Midland was named as representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

The 25,000-member Rebekah assembly also elected Mrs. William Spence, Bloomfield Hills, vice president; Mrs. William Schlafley, Farwell, warden; Mrs. Nelson Johnson, Mesick, marshal; Mrs. Hope Sheldon, Bay City, secretary; Mrs. Zetta Thompson, Detroit, treasurer; Mrs. Orville Hakes, Escanaba, conductor; Mrs. William Greenfield, Garden City, inside guardian, and Mrs. Helen Valentine, Blissfield, outside gardian.

Listed Dead

BILBAO, Spain (UPI)—Truck driver Jose Arteagagoitia was unable to return to work after being released from a hospital, because the city records listed him as dead.

A check showed that officials had mistakenly confused his name with that of a friend who died in an accident while operating Artegagoitia's motorcycle. Jose was riding as a passenger and was injured in the accident.

Hunting Needs Strong Hearts

Going hunting? Then ask yourself this question: Do I have the heart and body to stand the strain? It's not sentiment or ethics here, but just the simple question of physical fitness, especially for persons over 40.

The Michigan Heart Association says deer hunting often demands a level of energy output which may quadruple the level at which most sport hunters live during the rest of the year. Extremes of weather, change of altitude, rough terrain and the stress of the chase can levy a heavy tax on the heart's capacity.

In a unique series of experiments, the Minnesota Heart Association recently measured the heart stress on a deer hunter, who killed a deer and dragged it out alone. The exertion was too much for 11 per cent of a pre-screened group of men over 40 who had no evidence of heart trouble. The men who underwent the tests had previously been examined and found to have apparently normal hearts. It's obvious, therefore, that the hazards to an unexamined cross-section of hunters over 40 would be higher.

Therefore, the Heart Association, a Michigan United Fund agency, says:

Don't drag the bag! When you've downed your deer, let it lie until you can get help. And if you have a heart condition, get friends to do this job without you. Make your contribution to the hunt in a less strenuous way.

If you have a heart condition, tell at least one member of your party what medicine you take, how it is given and the symptoms which indicate the need for medication. He should know which pocket you keep it in, and the container should carry clearly typed instructions.

Never hunt alone. Get a good rest — preferably a full night's sleep — before you set out to hunt.

Rest as often and as long as you have to, before you get too tired; take your stand near camp and let the others flush.

Other things to remember:

Condition yourself in advance with an increasing schedule of exercise; Choose lightweight but warm clothing; Know simple first-aid rules; Be moderate in eating and drinking; Observe the standard safety rules of handling firearms.

Ship To Honor Hero Chaplain

BAY CITY (UPI) — A U.S. Navy ship will be christened here Wednesday in the name of the Rev. Joseph T. O'Callahan, the only Navy chaplain ever to win the Congressional Medal of Honor, the nation's highest decoration.

Father O'Callahan, who died in March of 1964, received the medal from President Harry S. Truman for heroic action while aboard the heavily damaged aircraft carrier, the U.S.S. Franklin off Kobe, Japan, in March of 1945.

Capt. Leslie E. Gehres, commanding officer of the Franklin, has characterized Father O'Callahan as "the bravest man I ever saw."

Although wounded, the priest recruited and led firefighters into an ammunition magazine to flood the compartment, helped throw hot, live bombs and shells overboard and, during all this, administered the last rites to the dying on the exposed flight deck.

Donkey Trade-In

Mayor Says Vote 'Yes':

Less Tax Millage Needed If City Keeps $1,000,000

The best interests of the City of Escanaba and its people will be served by retaining $1,000,000 in funds from the sale of the city gas utility, believes Mayor George W. Rusch.

He advises a "yes" vote at the special election on the question ordered by the City Council for Nov. 2. The referendum question:

"Shall the City continue to invest the funds received from the sale of the gas utility, approximately $1,000,000 and expend only the interest received therefrom for capital improvements?"

The Escanaba Daily Press has asked each of the members of the City Council to comment on the election by replying to six questions. The questions and the answers to each by Mayor Rusch:

Why do you believe a referendum is necessary?

A referendum is necessary to insure that this money will not be wantonly dissipated as a result of well-meaning pressure groups or by overzealous, self-interested council members.

Would you advise the citizens to vote "Yes"?

Mayor George W. Rusch

There is absolutely no question that the citizens should vote "Yes" in their own best interest and that of the city.

What advantage is there to the people of Escanaba in keeping the $1,000,000 intact?

The advantage of keeping this million dollars intact is a basic, simple one. It is seldom that a community of Escanaba's size has a reserve of this size available to draw interest that can be used for capital improvements. With interest of this amount ($40,000 each and every year it is held) an additional millage levy of approximately 1½ mills for capital improvement is not necessary.

Is the result of the election legally binding upon this and future Councils? Or is it advisory only?

The intent of this vote is not meant to be advisory. The Council is sure of its action in desiring to keep this money at interest. This election is binding on this and future Councils just as any other election would bebinding until the public by poplar election would reverse themselves.

Is there a prospect of loss if the fund is not spent before building costs rise?

This seems like a point of view based on shallow reasoning. What it says is "Shouldn't we hurry and spend our million dollars before prices go up?" Is this plain common sense? is this the kind of judgment we exercise in our own household planning? Must we spend all this money this year because we "think" prices are going up? With government matching funds we can do a million dollars worth of building about every 13 years, using the interest from the million dollar fund only, and keep our golden nsst egg, the million now in question, untouched.

Do you intend that there will be an election each time there is to be a disbursement from the fund, either from capital or earnings?

The intent is that if a project of let's say $350,000 and up, is under consideration and the Council feels the necessity for utililizing this fund, they would go to the people so that they are informed of the project and they will be asked to vote on using such amount as determined by the Council.

On the other hand, projects in the $100,000 to $200,000 range which can be handled on a one to two year basis from fund interest plus present capital improvement millage will be decided upon by the Council exercising their right and responsibility as elected officials and no vote shall be required.

John L. Farley Appointed To Board At NMU

LANSING (UPI)—Three appointments to state boards and commissioners were made by Gov. George Romney Tuesday.

Romney named John L. Farley of Menominee to the Northern Michigan University Board of Control. Farley, 65, is executive manager of the Menominee Area Chamber of Commerce.

Newell Remington, 48, a Bay City high school teacher, was named to the state Tenure Commission.

The governor also appointed Dr. Robert B. Britton, 36, of Charlotte to the Board of Examiners of Optometry.

Senate confirmation is required of Britton and Farley's appointments.

Farley retired this year from the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. after a long career in the Upper Peninsula in its commercial department.

He has been a leader in the Department of Michigan of the American Legion and head of its annual Boys State at Michigan State University, East Lansing, for many years.

The Great Lakes Conference race goes down to the wire this weekend with the championship resting on the results of two contests.

Coach Bill Earle's Munising Mustangs could gather in all the chips with a victory over Negaunee Saturday afternoon at Munising.

The Mustangs enter the game with a 3-1 record at the top of the league standings. Negaunee and Sault Ste. Marie are tied for second with 2-1-1 marks.

If Negaunee beats Munising Saturday, the Miners can do no worse than tie for the Great Lakes championship. Sault Ste. Marie would share the title with the Miners if the Blue Devils can defeat Marquette Friday night.

The lone remaining conference game is scheduled Saturday afternoon with the Manistique Emeralds traveling to Newberry. Both are out of contention for the league pennant. Gladstone and Ishpeming have completed their conference schedules.

Brought up from the Sox farm club at Lynchburg, Va., was righthander Fred Klagen. Pitchers Dennis Higgins and Gerald Nyman were added from the Sox Indianapolis affiliate.

PORTRAIT OF FIGHTER, AGING—Joey Giardello, defending his middleweight championship against Dick Tiger, is 36 years old. And the strain of training is etched on his face.

Odds Dance Like Joey

NEW YORK (UPI) — The odds began to dance about like Joey Giardello at his best today indicating that New York State's prodigal boxing son may enter the ring at close to even money Thursday night when he defends his middleweight title against Dick Tiger.

A flood of "Giardello money" cut the 2-1 odds favoring Tiger to 8-5 Tuesday and if the trend continues the wagering may be 6-5 pick 'em by Thursday night's 10 p.m., EDT, opening bell sounds in Madison Square Garden.

Supporting Joey

The late support for the 35-or-older champion apparently reflects a feeling that Tiger reached his peak a week ago when he hit 159 pounds. He was built back up to 162 and Tuesday hit 160 on the nose but some experts think he may have been weakened by the process.

Giardello, meanwhile, looks fit for a fight or a track meet. He's worked 170 rounds and done 150 miles of road work in preparation for the stolid, eager-punching Nigerian who lost the middleweight crown to Joey on a disputed decision 22 months ago at Atlantic City, N.J.

Giardello completed his training campaign by working out in the garden Tuesday. It marked the first time in 11 years that he was inside the Garden because he had been declared persona non grata by the New York State Athletic Commission for the last 11 years.

It says here that Joey lost his way in the unfamiliar basement area of the Garden and had to be escorted to the ring on the main garden level by special cops.

Fancy Footwork

Once in the ring, however, Giardello found his way around and impressed the experts with his condition. He joked about the center of the ring being "soft" —"I do my best fighting there" he said — and did some impressive work on the light bag before assembled newsmen.

Tiger, 36, and one of the hardest body punchers in the middleweight ranks, was caustic about Giardello's dancing tactics in their last bout.

"It takes two to make a good fight," he said. "If I start leaning on Giardello like he leans on me, there'd be no fight. So I'm going to move and fight. And this time I'm going to try to increase my speed as the fight moves along."

Tiger is at his best when he can plod straight toward an opponent and exchange body and head blows at close range. Giardello is an expert at defensive tactics and is content to flick away with his left to pile up points.

Trojans Retain Lead In Final U.P. Grid Poll

The Crystal Falls Trojans retained their top spot in the final Upper Peninsula Sportswriters Association football poll this week, drawing 10 first place votes and 127 points.

Ironwood moved up to the No. 2 spot, replacing Kingsford, with 117 points. The Flivvers, who tasted defeat for the first time in their game against Stambaugh last week, dropped to No. 5 in the list while Stambaugh jumped to the No. 3 position.

The Munising Mustangs made their first appearance in the top 10, climbing into the No. 6 position.

Others in the list include unbeaten St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Houghton, Negaunee and Menominee.

This is the final poll of the season by the writers from daily and weekly newspapers in the Upper Peninsula. They will hold their annual fall meeting Saturday, Nov. 7, in Houghton to select the U. P. team champion, All-Upper Peninsula players and Coach of the Year.

The results of the final poll:

1—Crystal Falls (10)	127
2—Ironwood (3)	117
3—Stambaugh	96
4—St. Ignace	88
5—Kingsford	81
6—Munising	41
7—Soo, Houghton (tie)	36
9—Negaunee, Menominee (tie)	24

Others in order: Iron River, Calumet, Lake Linden, DeTour, Escanaba, Ishpeming.

Spartan Cagers Lose Standout

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State University's basketball team, which sunk to a new low last season with a 5-18 record, has lost the services of 6-foot-8 sophomore center Gerald Geistler for six weeks because of an attack of infectious mononucleosis.

Team physician Dr. James Feurig said Geistler would be able to rejoin the team in December but would not be at full strength for at least another month after that.

Geistler, from Detroit Redford High School, is hospitalized at the campus Medical Center and is considered one of the best sophomore basketball candidates on the team.

Shea Stadium, New York City's municipally owned stadium, seats 55,300. It is the home of the baseball Mets and the football Jets.

Flashy Chicago Halfback Matches All-Time Record

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (UPI) — It took Gale Sayers of Kansas five games to get acclimated in the National Football League as a rookie halfback with the Chicago Bears.

Now it's a question of how much more he can learn.

Sayers Sunday equalled a Bears' record with four touchdowns in one game, returned a kickoff 96 yards for the winning touchdown in the final three minutes, caught two touchdown passes and completed a pass which almost went for touchdown.

All these feats came, he admitted, while he's still learning about pro football.

Variety Of Defenses

"The difference is in the defenses," he said. "I haven't picked all of them up yet. In college, you'd run against three or four defenses, and in the pro's, they've got 10 or 11 of them. It's hard for a rookie to pick them all up in one year. I've seen quite a few, but I'm still learning."

Sayers tabbed the speed-up as another difference in the pro game.

"The pursuit is much faster," he said. "You've got to make your cuts faster. In college, you didn't make many quick cuts, and there was no second or third effort.

"In the pro's when you see a hole, you've got to cut quick. The holes close up faster than in college."

Sayers confirmed that the pros hit harder too, but wouldn't blame his four fumbles this season on being tackled. "Mainly it was because I wasn't concentrating on the ball," he said. "I didn't have it in the palm of my hand. All I have to do is concentrate on it more and I won't fumble."

No Fumbles

He must have concentrated on the ball against the Vikings since he didn't fumble, nor did any other Bear, while he was en route to the kind of a day a back dreams of.

His performance left him leading the Bears in rushing, in kickoff returns and in scoring, second in pass receptions, and with a perfect passing record, two for two for 53 yards and one touchdown. His show, in fact, induced Owner-Coach George Halas, always stinting in praise, to one of his rare comparisons.

"We had Red Grange, George McAfee and Ray Nolting," Halas said, "and this boy as a rookie takes his place among them."

Sayers, as modest as he is fleet, credited his blockers with springing him for his long runs, drawing more praise from Halas for his "modesty."

But Sayers doesn't do everything, one of the Bears coaches said. He hasn't intercepted a pass or made a tackle—because he doesn't play defense.

Warriors Build Around Rookie

By United Press International

The San Francisco Warriors have been rebuilding their style of offense since dealing Wilt Chamberlain to Philadelphia, and the addition of a high-scoring rookie may turn the trick.

Paul Neumann sank a one-handed push shot from 20 feet out to give the Warriors a 100-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Cincinnati Royals Tuesday night, but Rick Barry, the rookie who led the nation in scoring at Miami (Fla.) last season, scored 25.

The Warriors are getting better scoring balance now than they did with Chamberlain. They had five players in double figures, four of them at 15 points or better. Oscar Robertson scored 32 for the Royals to take high-scoring honors.

Neumann's field goal was the cap to a spurt by the Warriors to wipe out a five-point lead the Royals had opened up with two minutes to play.

Forest Utility Paths Will Be Used For Game

Federal foresters conferred with utility representatives at the House of Ludington Tuesday on better usage of rights-of-way in the forests.

The group met here in the morning and spent the afternoon in the field, examining pipeline and electric and telephone line rights-of-way, which comprise about 2,700 acres and 330 miles on the big Hiawatha National Forest in the eastern Upper Peninsula.

Larry Haack, staff forester, introduced Herman Olson, Milwaukee, in charge of wildlife management in Region 9 of the U. S. Forest Service, who explained that the forest management regards present maintenance practices on utility rights-of-way as less than fully useful. The routes are maintained for efficient utility use, explained Olson, but the herbicides used, for instance, to kill off woody vegetation might be replaced with a selective killer that would permit growth of shrubs and trees for wildlife feed and which would kill growths injurious to the utilities' operations.

"Management of rights-of-way on national forest land for multiple use benefits is a responsibility of the Forest Service," said Olson. "The aim of the new rights-of-way management is to select vegetation requiring the least maintenance while affording the maximum value for wildlife and scenic values."

Reaction of the utility rights-of-way officials was cooperative, said Olson. They agreed to try such management.

The utility representatives included: R. G. Straub, Wisconsin Public Service Corp., Green Bay; G. S. Marks, R. K. Houle, Lakehead Pipe Line Co., Superior, Wis.; B. L. Frazier, Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co., Grand Rapids; Lawrence W. Brook, Beltrami Electric Co-Op, Bemidji, Minn.; Roy Hawkinson, Alger-Delta Electric Co-Op, Gladstone; R. Look and Earl Poisson, Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., Iron Mountain; Walter Lindstrom, Lake Superior Division Power Co., Ashland, Wis.; Lester Beckman and Edwin Johnson, North Itasca Electric Co-Op, Big Fork, Minn.; Abner J. Thoreson, Justice Kerfrot, Northern Minnesota Power Assn., Grand Rapids, Minn.; Robert Raisanen, U. P. Power Co., Houghton; Loretta Simon, E. L. Simon, Arrowhead Electric Co-Op, Lutsen, Minn.; E. M. Harper, Frank Rabb, Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha; Gerald Seeling, Dairyland Electric Co-Op, Grand Rapids, Minn.; William Kuronen, Burnel Rees, Co-Op Light & Power Association, Two Harbors, Minn.; J. R. Carson, Wisconsin Power & Light Co., Madison, Wis.

MEMBERS OF THE Escanaba Area High School marching band step highly in polishing drills this week for their appearance Sunday at Milwaukee for the Green Bay Packers-Dallas Cowboys National Football League game. Cub Scouts Bring Gifts

Eleven Den II Cub Scouts of Bark River, their Den Chiefs and Den Mothers enjoyed a field trip to St. Francis Hospital in Escanaba Monday afternoon and arrived bearing gifts.

Mother Superior M. Hildegarde conducted the tour to the pediatrics department and accepted the toys the Cub Scouts had made. Also visited were the kitchen, cafeteria and conference room where the tour ended with refreshments served by the Mother Superior.

Each month the Cub Scouts have a theme and project. October's theme was "Magic Words," such as please and thank you, and the project was to do something for someone else. The Scouts worked diligently making stuffed dolls and animals, a game board and other toys for the children in pediatrics to enjoy.

Cub Scouts on the tour were Robert and James Bash, Kris Erickson, Joseph Knauf, Mark and William Ray, William Belanger, Dennis Moniowczak, Matt Hanson, Keith Hurtibese and Kelvin Wendrich.

Den Chiefs were Dale Kwarciany, Robert Teal and Ted Bash. Den II mothers are Mrs. Jack Erickson and Mrs. Theodore Bash, assisted by Mrs. Leo Knauf.
